

SUMMARY

Customer: EBSI Websites
<http://ebsi.co/>

Location: San Diego, CA

Industry: Web Design

Challenge: EBSI's customer base was expanding and the creation of new websites was in demand. The time and energy of creating new forms for each website was not efficient for their developers

Solution: Formstack's no-coding product enabled EBSI to spend more time and energy creating websites for their customer base.

Benefits: Nearly $5000 was saved by using an online form builder rather than hiring more developers.

Web Design Company Saves $5k by Using Online Form Builder

About EBSI

EBSI is a web design firm that focuses on creating high-quality designs and separates itself from the others by providing high-quality design without the huge price tag that many design or web studios charge.

The Challenge

As the demand for new websites increased, the need for online forms for each website became apparent. With developers on staff, they started creating their own online forms from scratch, but the time required to code all of the forms they needed would take hours, if not days. Knowing that online forms are crucial to every website, they needed a quicker and easier solution than manually coding each form.

The Solution

After searching Google for 'online form creator software', they found a few applications that looked great, but those solutions never had all of the features EBSI was looking for. Before giving up the search, Russell Tanner, Co-Owner of EBSI Websites, came across Formstack and realized he found his match. Tanner was very impressed with the functionality that came with the application and how easy it was to create exactly what they had been searching for.

“Not having Formstack would be ugly. We are now very efficient with our time and we can also give our clients a quick and easy solution that will help their business become successful.”

- Russell Tanner, Principal Operations Director

EBSI now uses the online form creator for a majority of the websites they create. Whether they need a basic contact form or a more complicated form such as a light weight online ordering system, they always turn to Formstack for a quick resolution. EBSI also uses many of Formstack's third-party integrations to not only collect data in Formstack's database, but also push that data out to other third-party applications their clients use on a daily basis, such as Google Docs, MailChimp, and Highrise.

The Outcome

Since creating their first online form through Formstack several years ago, EBSI has not only been able to save days of development time, but also nearly five thousand dollars from costs associated with hiring new developers to do the same work Formstack provides. The online form builder has helped EBSI improve on their overall efficiency by integrating with third party applications which gets the same information pushed out to multiple platforms and more customers.

“Not having Formstack would be ugly”, states Tanner. “We are now very efficient with our time and we can also give our clients a quick and easy solution that will help their business become successful.”